BURMA FRONT IMPROVES

Soviet Says Germans Have Lost 45,000 Trying To Capture Sevastopol

By International News Service
Definitely on the offensive, American and Australian fliers based on the island continent slashed out mercilessly against Japanese-held bases today while the outlook improved in Burma and the Soviet armies took increasing toll of the enemy on the Russian front.

A heavy raid was staged on the airport at Salamaua, New Guinea, following violent attacks Monday and Tuesday on Lae and Koepong, Timor, in which at least 18 Japanese bombers and fighters were destroyed.

In addition, one and perhaps two enemy craft were shot down in yesterday's Japanese raid on Port Darwin, which despite Japanese claims to the contrary was a failure. There were no casualties and little damage.

The Burma situation improved when British imperial forces, assisted by Indian units, smashed into action and cleared the road blocks placed by the Japanese near Shwedaung, 10 miles below Prome. By means of these barricades, the enemy had hoped to slip around the ends of an assault on Prome and the vital oil fields that lie to the north.

There also was cheering word from London to the effect that a huge convoy of British and American war materials had safely reached Murmansk after defeat of a Nazi naval squadron by British and Russian vessels escorting it.

No Big Ships Used
The German attack failed, British authorities pointed out, because the Nazi high command apparently fears to employ large naval units based on Trondheim in attacks on convoys.

Such action, it was said, would expose the German southern flank to the British home fleet. Britain's navy would like nothing better than a crack on even terms at the battleship Tirpitz and other large German men-of-war now in shelter in Norway.

Stockholm and Moscow seethed with reports of unrest and riots in Germany. The Soviet radio reported barricades and machine-gun emplacements, together with storm troops parading to cow the populace. But it was recalled that previous reports to this effect were found to be false and Nazi propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels made great capital out of them. Large numbers of German troops were reported massing along the front from Vyazma, in the central sector, to Kharkov in the south. Moscow announced that 45,000 men had been killed in two futile major attempts to capture Sevastopol in the Crimea, while another 1,000 were slain in hopeless counter-attacks in the Kallin area.

An America at war is breaking all previous records for Easter shopping this year, a coast-to-coast survey disclosed today.

In nearly every section of the nation, retailers listed the same three major reasons for their record-breaking sales:

1. An increase in the size and number of pay checks because of the vast, all-out industrial phase of the war effort.

2. Uncertainty of consumers about future scarcities and priority regulations.

3. Higher prices.

Retailers emphasized that the stepped-up business tempo did not constitute what is known as "panic buying," and said there was no evidence available which would indicate any widespread hoarding. Yet, estimated percentage increases in retail sales ranged as high as 60 percent in some sections.

Much of the buying was centered on so-called "practical goods," with the heaviest purchases registered in wearing apparel. For example, demand for men's suits, overcoats and topcoats skyrocketed within the last two weeks to heights never before attained in the history of the nation. The announcement that suits would be cutless and single-breasted after March 30 was believed to have accounted somewhat for the unprecedented surge.

Although the clothing boom was the most spectacular, sales of other types of merchandise have been far above usual levels.

In these other commodities, however, retailers said their reports indicated more substantial increases in terms of money taken in than in actual number of sales of consumer goods. Thus, the higher prices

Circleville retailers were unanimous Wednesday in declaring pre-Easter business better than that of 1941. Store operators were unable to provide an estimate on the percentage of increase, but all expressed satisfaction with business to date. However, satisfactory weather the remainder of the week will boost Easter sales still further.

CHICAGO: Buying up 12 to 15 percent in unit volume and corresponding or greater increase expected in dollar value.

"People are buying good goods," said one retail organization official. "They want durable things—household as well as clothes—which will last a long time." Increased employment due to war production and the desire to buy now before increased federal regulations come listed as reasons. Many customers voluntarily carrying home own packages to save gas, rubber.

DETROIT: Retail sales for March one-third above corresponding period of 1941, according to Chamber of Commerce report. Increases of from one to five percent recorded between March 13 and 20, and retail sales on latter date ranged from 30 to 45 percent above those of same date last year. Increased business reported due to threatened shortages, approach of Easter and weather conditions.

WASHINGTON: Pre-Easter buying up 34 percent for Richmond, Baltimore and the Washington area.

BOSTON: Buying up substantially throughout Boston area, with all lines of merchandise affected. Crowds heavy all week and record-breaking throngs expected Saturday.

General Wainwright Reports Nipponese Unsuccessful Though Sending Wave After Wave Against Yank Forces

Corregidor Fights Off Another Bombing Attack; Apology Received For Base Hospital Damage By Airplanes

WASHINGTON, April 1—The battle of the Philippines reached a new pitch today when the War department reported that Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's troops repulsed waves of Japanese attacks in savage hand-to-hand bayonet fighting as Corregidor sustained its 116th air attack without any notable damage being suffered.

The department conceded however that the fierce enemy onslaught on Bataan had cost the American-Philippine forces some of their advanced positions, but stated that the attack "was brought to a halt before it reached our main line."

The communique also disclosed that the Japanese high command has formally apologized for the ruthless bombing of the base hospital in Bataan, claiming that the air-raid was "unintentional."

Second In Few Days

The attack on Gen. Wainwright's troops was the second heavy one within the last few days and was focused on the right center of his lines. The assault was carried out by enemy troops supported by mortar fire.

Gen. Wainwright's outnumbered forces, however, fought the invading forces in a bayonet battle until defending reinforcements arrived and stopped the Nipponese attack after hours of savage battle.

Indicating the engagement was a victory for the American-Philippine fighters, the communique made it plain that the attack had been repulsed before the enemy could consolidate his gains.

At the same time, the communique reported that powerful Corregidor island had fought off the 116th Japanese aerial attack since the outbreak of the war.

In the latest attack, the ninth consecutive bombardment in as many days, anti-aircraft gunners again checked the Japanese, by shooting down both of the attacking heavy bombers after they had made a series of assaults throughout the day.

The latest planes shot down brought to 11 the number of Japanese bombers destroyed since the current attacks began nine days ago.

MRS. HOWARD F. BROWN, ILL SEVERAL YEARS, DIES

Mrs. Laura Brown, 79, widow of Howard F. Brown, died Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. at her home, 122 South Pickaway street, after several years' illness.

Mrs. Brown was a lifelong member of the Methodist church and had taught in the Sunday school for many years. She had served as a bookkeeper for Oscar S. Howard when he was in the furniture business and also for the late A. C. Wilkes.

She was born in Hillsboro, May 15, 1862, a daughter of James and Albina Crum Harsha. Her only survivors are a niece, Miss Marie Patton of Detroit; a nephew, Dr. James Mervin Harsha of Washington, D. C.; and three cousins, the Misses Ella and Mattie Crum, and Mrs. Leslie Pontius.

The funeral will be Thursday at 10:30 a. m. at the M. S. Rinehart funeral home, the Rev. Neil Peterson of the Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

LONDON—The empire flying boat Circe, carrying a crew of four and 16 evacuees from Java, was lost somewhere near Java during the last part of February, the Aneta news agency reported from Sydney today. The Circe which left the Indies before the invasion was last heard from when it radioed its position 200 miles south of Tjilatjap, middle Java.

This dispatch was sent from an enemy country, whose motive in releasing news is likely to be propaganda. Axis claims should be credited only when confirmed by American or Allied sources.

AYRES' LATEST MOVIE MAY NOT BE CIRCULATED

HOLLYWOOD, April 1—Fate of the "Dr. Kildare" movie series appeared doomed today as Hollywood still buzzed with amazement over the decision of Lew Ayres to enter a conscientious objectors' camp instead of shouldering a rifle in the U. S. Army.

While Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives hesitated even to venture what they would do with Ayres' latest "Dr. Kildare" film—an unnamed picture costing $350,000—Hollywood was giving odds that the movie would never be released.

Public opinion, in many sections of the country, already has caused several Dr. Kildare films to be withdrawn. There were unofficial statements that the series would be discontinued.

APPEALS COURT JUDGES HEAR TWO CASES HERE

Two cases previously heard by the Court of Appeals were being reconsidered with additional testimony presented Wednesday in the Common Pleas court room.

One case concerned that of W. E. Caskey and others regarding Luckoff Incorporated and concerns rent payments for a South Court street building.

Second case being considered was that of the Crites Oil company against the Ralston Purina company and concerns certain easement rights on a property exchange between the two companies.

HERE'S BATTLE IN WHICH LIEUTENANT O'HARE SHOT DOWN SIX JAPS

A dramatic moment during the southwest Pacific sea-air battle in which Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, U. S. Navy pilot, single-handedly shot down six Japanese bombers, is pictured above. The black dots scattered across the sky are bursting shells of the intense anti-aircraft barrage sent up by warships of the task force. The column of smoke rising astern of the aircraft carrier, center, is from a Japanese plane shot down by O'Hare. The Jap pilot unsuccessfully attempted a suicide crash into the carrier.

London Newspaper Reports Fight In Indian Ocean; Result Not Known

LONDON, April 1—A second clash between United Nations naval and air forces and Japanese units—this time in the Indian ocean—was reported today by the News Chronicle.

The story, datelined "with United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific," did not disclose results of the engagement. The newspaper interpreted the report of the sea battle as an explanation of a Rome announcement that a British naval force, including two battleships, recently had rounded the Cape of Good Hope.

THREE SOLDIERS TRAIN VICTIMS AT FORT CUSTER

FORT CUSTER, Mich., April 1—A military investigation was launched today into the crash of an Army truck and Grand Trunk streamline train which resulted in the death of three Fort Custer soldiers and injuries for five others, post officers announced.

The tragedy occurred near the post as the truckload of 12 soldiers returned from guard duty yesterday. Four escaped injury by leaping to safety.

Three More Physicians To Aid Examination Of Men For Armed Service

Draft board announced Wednesday that three more examining physicians had been appointed for Circleville and Pickaway county through the Selective Service system. They are Dr. G. W. Heffner, Dr. E. S. Shane and Dr. Ned B. Griner.

The physicians will assist Dr. D. V. Courtwright and Dr. Lloyd Jones, present medical examiners, in giving preliminary physical examinations to registrants soon to be inducted into the armed forces.

Anticipation of an additional burden on the present examiners during the Spring months made the three additional appointments necessary, the local board said.

RUSSIANS CLAIM NAZIS PLACING GUNS IN STREETS

MOSCOW, April 1—Nazis have erected barricades in the industrial suburbs of Berlin and machine guns have been placed in strategic positions throughout the German capital, the Moscow radio reported today.

Storm troops were said to be practicing street fighting on the Berlin thoroughfares to impress German workers with their prowess.

Hunger riots were reported to have taken place at Essen and guards were said to have been increased at factories producing war materials.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second time in recent weeks that foreign radio reports have told of unusual precautions in Berlin. On the first occasion, it was said that machine-guns had been mounted on the roof of the chancellery and at important street intersections. German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels immediately gave the reports wide circulation in Germany, inviting the German people to look at Berlin in its normal wartime garb to satisfy themselves as to the falsity of what he termed United Nations "fear propaganda.")

FLAMES SWEEP FARM PROPERTY AT DARBYVILLE

A defective flue was believed to have caused a fire which consumed the one-story house of Howard L. Grabill one mile north of Darbyville Wednesday noon.

Almost all the contents of the building, with the exception of two stoves, were saved. The fire apparently started when the Grabills were in Darbyville, and when they returned home the kitchen was in flames. When the rural fire truck arrived it was impossible to save the house.

A strong wind blew the flames away from the other farm buildings, but the rural truck remained at the scene for some time after the house fell to make certain that other buildings were not threatened by a change in the wind.

Damage was estimated by Acting Fire Chief Robert Wolf at $2,000. The house stood on the James Reilly estate.

POLICE CALLED TO BOY SCHOOL

Lansing, Mich., Vocational Institution Scene Of Riot; Youths Escape

LANSING, Mich., April 1—State police were called to the Boys' vocational school at Lansing today when rioting broke out following the escape during the night and early morning of 15 to 17 boys who are believed to have stolen at least three automobiles.

Five of the boys who escaped were captured by Lansing police less than a mile from the school. The cause of the rioting was not immediately known. Garrett Heyns, temporary superintendent of the school, said he did not know whether the boys were fighting among themselves or were battling guards.

The first of the mass escapes was reported to Lansing police by school authorities during the night. Guards said that between 10 and 12 boys broke out of the school, but no details were given. Shortly before the riot this morning, five more boys escaped, the guards said and state police were called. Lansing police reported receiving reports that three cars were stolen.

DRAFT BOARDS TOLD TO SPEED CLASSIFICATION

Men Who Signed February 16 May Be Called During May Or June

BIG QUOTAS INDICATED

Youths 20 And Elders Of 36 To 45 May Be Summoned Soon

National draft headquarters Wednesday ordered local draft boards to immediately classify the 9,000,000 men who registered February 16 so that they can be used to fill May and June quotas, if necessary.

They comprise youths 20 years old, and men from 36 to 45, inclusive. They were registered February 16, and given order numbers in the national lottery March 17.

At the same time, Selective Service officials ordered all local boards to complete classification of the 17,000,000 men from 21 and 35, inclusive, who registered under the original draft act. The boards were told that if they could not fill May and June quota from class 1-A registrants among the 17,000,000, they should furnish Class 1-A men from the 9,000,000 who registered under the second draft act. This means that some men in the 20 and 36 to 45 group may be inducted into the Army as early as May or June.

RAVER DECLARED INSANE AT TIME HE KILLED WIFE

KENTON, April 1—A jury of seven men and five women today acquitted Francis Edward Raver, 23, of first degree murder charges in connection with the slaying of his wife, Reva, also 23. The jury held Raver was insane at the time the crime was committed.

The verdict was reached after the jury deliberated nine hours. Taking of testimony required eight days.

Raver, who admitted shooting his wife January 26 when she informed him she was going to seek a divorce, had pleaded insanity at the time of the crime. The state, claiming the slaying was premeditated, was seeking a first degree murder conviction carrying the death penalty.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor ordered Raver committed to the Lima State hospital for the Criminal Insane. He will be held there until declared sane and then will be released.

SCHOOL OUT TWO DAYS
Circleville school children will enjoy a two-day Easter vacation, classes being dismissed at 3:15 Wednesday afternoon for the remainder of the week.

KENTON, April 1—A jury of seven men and five women today acquitted Francis Edward Raver, 23, of first degree murder charges in connection with the slaying of his wife, Reva, also 23. The jury held Raver was insane at the time the crime was committed.

The verdict was reached after the jury deliberated nine hours. Taking of testimony required eight days.

Raver, who admitted shooting his wife January 26 when she informed him she was going to seek a divorce, had pleaded insanity at the time of the crime. The state, claiming the slaying was premeditated, was seeking a first degree murder conviction carrying the death penalty.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor ordered Raver committed to the Lima State hospital for the Criminal Insane. He will be held there until declared sane and then will be released.

A Y R E S ' LATEST MOVIE MAY NOT BE CIRCULATED

HOLLYWOOD, April 1—Fate of the "Dr. Kildare" movie series appeared doomed today as Hollywood still buzzed with amazement over the decision of Lew Ayres to enter a conscientious objectors' camp instead of shouldering a rifle in the U. S. Army.

While Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives hesitated even to venture what they would do with Ayres' latest "Dr. Kildare" film, an unnamed picture costing $350,000—Hollywood was giving odds that the movie would never be released.

Public opinion, in many sections of the country, already has caused several Dr. Kildare films to be withdrawn. There were unofficial statements that the series would be discontinued.

APPEALS COURT JUDGES HEAR TWO CASES HERE

Two cases previously heard by the Court of Appeals were being reconsidered with additional testimony presented Wednesday in the Common Pleas court room.

Second case being considered was that of the Crites Oil company against the Ralston Purina company and concerns certain easement rights on a property exchange between the two companies.

BILL PROVIDING FOR SOLDIERS' FAMILIES ASKED

Rep. May Of Kentucky To Open Door For Great Call To Colors

PAY INCREASE CERTAIN

Montana Solon Would Put Scale At $50 Instead Of Proposed $42

WASHINGTON, April 1—Paving the way for possible induction into the armed service of millions of men with dependents, Rep. May (D) Ky., today said that the House military affairs committee, of which he is chairman, will soon begin consideration of the so-called compulsory allotment bill.

This measure, which will permit deduction from a soldier's pay of allotments for his dependents, will be considered in connection with the Senate-approved bill boosting the pay of privates from $21 to $42 a month with other sharp increases in the other lower ranks.

Although the pay boost bill, which passed the Senate unanimously, was not sponsored by the War department, May endorsed it heartily and predicted speedy House approval.

"But with it should go the compulsory allotment bill," the Kentuckian declared. "As well as providing properly for the men in the service, we've got to be sure that dependents they have left behind are cared for."

Some Money Deducted

This measure, introduced some time ago by Rep. Edmonson (D), W. Va., provides that up to $15 a month may be deducted by the government from a soldier's pay and given to his dependent. Whatever amount is taken from the soldier will be matched, or in the case of a man with several dependents, more than matched, by the government.

May said that hearings on the legislation will start as soon as he returns from a trip home on April 14. He said the two bills would be considered together and indicated that they may be brought to the floor as one omnibus measure.

Overwhelming passage of the pay-raising legislation was expected. One member, Rep. O'Connor (D) Mont., has announced that he will seek to jack the starting pay up to $50 a month instead of $42 as provided in the Senate measure.

ST. MARYS FOLK AWAIT REPORT OF WATER TEST

ST. MARYS, O., April 1—Residents of St. Marys today awaited results of tests being taken of the city's water supply with the hope the cause of a strange intestinal malady that struck an estimated 400 persons would thus be determined.

City Health Commissioner J. E. Heap has expressed belief the cause for the widespread illness was drinking water, but Service Director W. R. Cook said he was not convinced such was the case.

Yesterday, Cook ordered water cut off from all manufacturing plants and had every main drained. Residents were warned to boil water before drinking it and schools restricted use of water to sanitation purposes only.

A sample of the water was being tested in the state health department's laboratory at Columbus and preliminary results were expected to be announced today.

Persons affected by the ailment suffered both dysentery and vomiting, Dr. Heap said. He estimated the number taken ill since the ailment was first noticed Saturday at upward of 400. Several teachers and about 200 children were absent from schools yesterday.

Wood in nature is a material combined with from one-third to two and one-half times its weight in water, so that a fresh cut log 16 feet long and 18 inches in diameter, has a liquid content of more than 100 gallons.

Germany's Food Problem Becoming More Serious

ANKARA, April 1 — The food problem in Germany has grown so serious that the most notorious "black market" in Europe has come into existence in Berlin, neutral travelers arriving in Turkey asserted today.

It was said that for weeks it has been impossible to get potatoes in Germany.

Public morale reportedly is slipping as the Reich government calls on the public repeatedly for new sacrifices and stricter food rationing is imposed.

Besides resorting to the black market, it was said, the German populace has taken to other means of securing its wants. The traditional "simon pure" honesty was said to be weakening.

Instances were cited where food packages arriving from abroad frequently had been rifled in post-offices, or at any rate before reaching their destination.

Bribery was said to be appearing even at the Nazi war ministry where American dollars and British pounds sterling significantly are being circulated in transactions.

Persons arriving in Ankara from Berlin said also that the German public is seeking to forget its troubles in heavy drinking and a variety of entertainment. Motion picture houses and other theatres sell out their seats days in advance, it was said.

These neutral observers warn, however, that despite the conditions evident in the Reich it is still too early for a serious collapse of public support of Adolf Hitler's war.

Everyone in Germany was reported nervously awaiting the summer with the feeling that success or failure of the Russian campaign will decide the outcome of the war.

PEGGY DIGGINS PICKED BY ARMY AS SWEETHEART

NEW YORK, April 1—Fifty thousand soldiers can't be wrong when it comes to beauty—and in their forts, camps and cantonments where the fair sex may never set foot they have chosen a beauty of beauties as their sweetheart of the Army.

She's Peggy Diggins, Hollywood starlet, chosen as their ideal by men in Army camps all over the country—the loveliest of 1,000 beauties entered in the service-wide contest.

The contest was sponsored by Walter Thornton, New York model agency head, to determine America's ideal of feminine beauty and the girl who best typified that ideal. The judges were those Thornton thought best qualified to decide—America's young men in the service.

Miss Diggins received 85 percent of the 50,000 votes, Thornton announced today, in naming her the "Sweetheart of the Army."

Slim, vibrantly beautiful, Miss Diggins is a brunette, with violet-blue eyes, tall, and graceful. Before leaving for Hollywood and a career in motion pictures, she was one of the country's most outstanding models.

Daughter of a Mount Vernon, N. Y., attorney, she was first discovered by a motion picture talent scout. She was being groomed for a screen test in New York when the company sent her to Thornton to gain experience in modeling and posing for commercial photography. Her success was so instantaneous that she became identified with the modeling field and won a scholarship to the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She was also picked by Artist James Montgomery Flagg as the perfect Irish girl for St. Patrick's Day.

CARE OF EASTER CORSAGE, OTHER PLANTS OUTLINED

It is well to know that flowers that are made up in corsages need not be kept in a refrigerator. They need only a cool place. When delivered by your florist, the corsage is packed in an airtight cellophane bag. The object of the bag is to keep air out and it is best to leave the corsage in the bag until you want to wear it. After you want to preserve it for future wear, then dampen some paper, place it under the corsage and place the paper and the corsage back into the cellophane bag and place in a cool place.

Do not attempt to sprinkle water over the blooms except in the case of gardenias. Gardenias will not take up any water through their stems after being cut. Florists store them in dampened cotton. Most flowers are damaged from freezing temperatures, so store them in a temperature of around 45 degrees for best results.

Hydrangeas, Cinerarias and other similar blooming plants that carry a lot of flowers require a lot of water. If your hydrangea wilts badly, simply set the pot in a pail of water and let it remain there for 10 or 15 minutes and it is almost miraculous how quickly it will recover.

Potted roses, too, take a lot of water and in May when you plant them out doors be sure the soil is well watered.

UNITED NATIONS CONVOY REACHES MURMANSK BASE

LONDON, April 1 — A large United Nations convoy, laden with tanks, planes and munitions, was reported today to have arrived safely in Murmansk after British and Russian naval units beat off three heavy attacks by German naval forces and bombing planes.

The Daily Telegraph, in a dispatch from Stockholm, said the attacking German forces consisted of submarines, dive-bombers and warships. The convoy, bearing war materials mainly from the United States, was heavily protected by British and Soviet cruisers and destroyers. One report said an aircraft carrier escorted the convoy.

Reports that the heavy Nazi battleship Tirpitz participated in the attack were discounted in Stockholm.

Berlin had admitted loss of one destroyer in an engagement in Arctic waters and it was stated reliably that another Nazi destroyer was badly damaged and set afire.

Azaleas in most cases should be left in the size pot they are bought in and in summer sink the pot in a shady place and take the plant back in the house after the first light frost. And it will bloom again. Water only with soft water and if new soil is added be sure that the soil is acid by adding some well rotted oak leaves.

When in doubt about the care of any flower, call your florist. He will be glad to advise you concerning its care.

The highway patrol warned that motorists should not drive Wednesday with their old tags, reiterating that there would be no extension of the deadline, and city police and sheriff's officers also were watching closely for cars with old tags.

The tags may be the last car owners will purchase until after the war, since plans already are

A truly marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, under-weight, sluggishness, loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize your body with rich, red blood!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness... Yet have no gastric trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient... to re-energize and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

JOSEPH CARMEAN ESTATE VALUATION SET AT $22,137

An inventory filed in Probate court Wednesday of the estate of Joseph Schleich values the property at $22,137.32, of which $21,822 is real estate.

The real property includes a 183 acre farm in Deercreek township and an undivided half of a 114 acre farm, also in Deercreek township, a lot in Williamsport and half interest in another lot in that village.

Appraisers were C. E. Hill and Charles Carmean of Williamsport and Clark Will of Circleville.

Landings of fishery products at the three ports of Portland, Me., Gloucester and Boston, Mass., were up 27 percent in volume and 43 percent in value for 1941 over totals for 1940. They amounted to 473,496,000 pounds, worth $15,851,000 to fishermen, according to Current Fishery Statistics released by the U. S. department of the interior.

Old Tube Must Be Turned In When You Buy Supply Of Tooth Paste, WPB Says

WASHINGTON, April 1—You'd better start rescuing those thrown-away toothpaste and shaving cream tubes from the trash pile if you want a "refill."

A new WPB order goes into effect today requiring everyone who buys a tube of toothpaste or shaving cream to turn in an old tube for each new one purchased.

Old toothpaste tubes can be turned in when buying shaving cream or vice versa, but you must have an old tube to exchange or it's no sale.

Druggists and other retailers will return the old tubes to the collapsible tube industry which will salvage the tin and use it in making new tin coated tubes.

The requirement was contained in an order imposing drastic regulations on the use and production of collapsible tin tubes, completely eliminating their use for foods, cosmetics and most toilet preparations.

One hundred percent tin tubes will be allowed only for certain medical ointments and pharmaceutical preparations while the tin-coated tubes will be used for certain other pharmaceutical preparations, toothpaste and shaving cream.

BIRD DOG CLUB FORMED; RALPH McDILL ELECTED

Organization of bird dog fanciers was completed Tuesday evening when 14 Circleville and Pickaway county dog owners met in the Elks home to name officers and make plans for their first field trial.

Ralph McDill of Circleville route 2 was named president of the group, which will be called the Pickaway County Sportsman's Bird Dog club. It will be affiliated with the Pickaway County Farmer's and Sportsman's association.

Other officers are Walter Stambaugh, secretary, Leo McClure, treasurer. The club's first trial will be April 12, and it will be limited to Pickaway county-owned dogs. The trial site will be at the Percy May farm, in Wayne township, one mile south of Route 22 on Route 104.

An entry fee of $1 will be charged for all dogs, and April 8 is the date set for final registration. The club will conduct other trials after the first one, planning to invite owners from other counties at later events.

EIGHTH YEAR TESTS TO BE HELD FRIDAY, APRIL 17

Information on Eighth Year tests for Pickaway county pupils was received Wednesday by local superintendents. The tests will be held Friday, April 17, with six centers set up for the exchange of teachers in administering the tests.

The centers are: 1. Deercreek, Jackson and Wayne; 2. Monroe and Scioto; 3. Darby and Muhlenberg; 4. Pickaway, Washington, Saltcreek and Tarleton; 5. Ashville, Walnut, South Bloomfield, Madison and Duval; 6. Perry and New Holland.

The program will consist of a battery of four tests, arithmetic, English, American history and science. Not more than two hours will be required to administer the test and the county board of education will furnish the test and pay for the cost of machine scoring.

County awards will be presented to all who rank in the upper 25 percent and state awards to those who rank in the upper one percent of the state.

SORORITY AND THEATRE JOIN IN 'PREMIERE'

Phi Beta Psi sorority will join next Wednesday and Thursday with the management of the Grand theatre in presenting a regular Hollywood premiere.

Robert H. Gage, business manager for this novel attraction, has been in Circleville for the last two days making arrangements for the premiere which promises to be exciting.

The Hollywood premiere will be presented in the same manner in which traditional first night openings are conducted in the film capital and the occasion of the opening night of some large feature picture.

Flood lights, cameras and microphones will be prominently displayed in front of the Grand theatre, as a caravan of motor cars arrives bringing about 30 local doubles of movie stars, who will speak at the "mike", and greet movie fans who are expected to be on hand to get a glimpse of their favorite "movie star".

The local "stars" will then enter the theatre where they will participate in a one hour stage show, which will also be augmented by several local specialty acts of vocal, dancing and comedy.

A search for talent is being conducted by a committee from the sorority, and a suggestion box has been placed in the lobby of the Grand theatre where patrons are invited to fill out blanks regarding any person that they might know who resembles some movie star.

An advanced ticket campaign is also being launched by the members of the sorority, and it is urged that anyone planning to attend the Hollywood premiere purchase tickets in advance.

In addition to the Hollywood premiere, the theatre will present "Melody Lane."

CUTRATE HAIRCUTS

The liveliest part of House debate on the legislative appropriation bill (providing funds for the operation of Congress) does not appear in the Congressional Record. It was over the issue of half-price haircuts for congressmen, and was deleted by members who feared repercussions if their constituents learned about the boodle.

Representative Frederick Smith, a plain-talking Ohioan, raised the ticklish haircut issue.

Representative Emmet O'Neal of Kentucky, economy-preaching chairman of a subcommittee on the bill was explaining various "miscellaneous" items, when he remarked, with a disapproving look at the press gallery:

"It is a common fallacy that haircuts, shaves, soda water and things like that are furnished House members free. That idea is a mistake."

Smith of Ohio immediately jumped up to question this.

"Why not be frank with ourselves and the people about haircuts?" he demanded. "They cost us only 25 cents in the House barber shop, half or less than half the regular price. That's getting something free, isn't it? Why not admit it to the people?"

O'Neal was so startled that his pince-nez glasses almost fell off. He coughed nervously, but did not attempt to refute Smith. Neither did anyone else. Later the Ohioan was besieged by members to delete his remarks. Finally he gave in.

JAP PROPAGANDA

According to a Tokio broadcast, beamed toward South America, Roosevelt took MacArthur out of the Philippines because he suffered severe defeat. This sort of propaganda was to be expected, but not expected was the source quoted by Tokio—a story in the Argentine newspaper, La Nacion, written by its Washington correspondent, Fernando Ortiz-Echague. Actually, Ortiz-Echague said just the opposite, compared Roosevelt and MacArthur to Clemenceau and Foch, predicted for them the same brilliant record as those French leaders.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Senate insiders are predicting that Earl Harrison, able Philadelphia Republican, will be confirmed as Commissioner of Immigration despite the "personal objections" of Democratic Senator Joe Guffey. Harrison did a widely acclaimed job directing the alien registration last year and agreed to take the Immigration post at a personal sacrifice.

Robert Guthrie, WPB executive whose resignation exploded a bombshell under profit-minded dollar-a-year men, asked Wendell Willkie to act as his counsel when he appeared before the congressional investigating committee. The GOP leader declined, however, on the ground that he did not want to appear in the light of harassing the Administration. In a letter to the War Labor Board, Ted F. Silvey, plain-talking secretary of the Ohio CIO Council, charged that in order to bring unions into dispute, certain employers are deliberately stirring up labor disturbances by placing negro workers among whites without first consulting shop stewards. Silvey declared that the CIO is against race discrimination but is opposed to precipitous action by employers. National Maritime Union, a CIO affiliate, has a foreign section, with no control by U. S. to organize seamen serving on U. S. ships under the flag of Panama. The union has a strong communistic flavor.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

BEST storekeeper I ever knew was a fellow named Sam Abernethy. Sam's specialty was to take over some run-down store that somebody else had given up as a failure. Then Sam would turn it into a gold mine.

"But the most important thing of all," he used to say, "is to remember who's Boss!"

"You may think you are Boss of your business... but you're not. The Public, your customers, are the real bosses... and you've got to run your business the way they want it."

That little statement of Sam's made a big impression on me... particularly since it certainly seemed to work so well in Sam's case.

And Sam isn't the only one. I see the beer industry feels the same way... certainly, the brewers believe in running their business the way you and I would like to see it run.

Folks like us like to see beer sold in clean, quiet, decent places.

Well... the brewers feel the same way about it. They don't want their beer sold in wrong surroundings. They know it doesn't pay. And they know it hurts the good name of beer.

I was reading the other day how the brewers and the beer distributors work together and cooperate with law enforcement authorities. The idea is to make careless beer retailers clean up their places and practices... or close up.

It's a good plan... and it seems to me it ought to work. I understand it is already in operation in a number of states and is being extended.

It's a mighty fine thing when a great industry has the gumption to do a job like that on its own initiative. And if Sam Abernethy was right, the brewers should be mighty successful... because they're running their business the way the public wants to see it run.

Old Tube Must Be Turned In When You Buy Supply Of Tooth Paste, WPB Says

WASHINGTON, April 1—You'd better start rescuing those thrown-away toothpaste and shaving cream tubes from the trash pile if you want a "refill."

A new WPB order goes into effect today requiring everyone who buys a tube of toothpaste or shaving cream to turn in an old tube for each new one purchased.

Old toothpaste tubes can be turned in when buying shaving cream or vice versa, but you must have an old tube to exchange or it's no sale.

Druggists and other retailers will return the old tubes to the collapsible tube industry which will salvage the tin and use it in making new tin coated tubes.

The requirement was contained in an order imposing drastic regulations on the use and production of collapsible tin tubes, completely eliminating their use for foods, cosmetics and most toilet preparations.

One hundred percent tin tubes will be allowed only for certain medical ointments and pharmaceutical preparations while the tin-coated tubes will be used for certain other pharmaceutical preparations, toothpaste and shaving cream.

BIRD DOG CLUB FORMED; RALPH McDILL ELECTED

Organization of bird dog fanciers was completed Tuesday evening when 14 Circleville and Pickaway county dog owners met in the Elks home to name officers and make plans for their first field trial.

Ralph McDill of Circleville route 2 was named president of the group, which will be called the Pickaway County Sportsman's Bird Dog club. It will be affiliated with the Pickaway County Farmer's and Sportsman's association.

Other officers are Walter Stambaugh, secretary, Leo McClure, treasurer.

The club's first trial will be April 12, and it will be limited to Pickaway county-owned dogs. The trial site will be at the Percy May farm, in Wayne township, one mile south of Route 22 on Route 104.

An entry fee of $1 will be charged for all dogs, and April 8 is the date set for final registration.

The club will conduct other trials after the first one, planning to invite owners from other counties at later events.

EIGHTH YEAR TESTS TO BE HELD FRIDAY, APRIL 17

Information on Eighth Year tests for Pickaway county pupils was received Wednesday by local superintendents. The tests will be held Friday, April 17, with six centers set up for the exchange of teachers in administering the tests.

The centers are: 1. Deer Creek, Jackson and Wayne; 2. Monroe and Scioto; 3. Darby and Muhlenberg; 4. Pickaway, Washington, Salt Creek and Tarleton; 5. Ashville, Walnut, South Bloomfield, Madison and Duval; 6. Perry and New Holland.

The program will consist of a battery of four tests, arithmetic, English, American history and science. Not more than two hours will be required to administer the test and the county board of education will furnish the test and pay for the cost of machine scoring.

County awards will be presented to all who rank in the upper 25 percent and state awards to those who rank in the upper one percent of the state.

SORORITY AND THEATRE JOIN IN 'PREMIERE'

Phi Beta Psi sorority will join next Wednesday and Thursday with the management of the Grand theatre in presenting a regular Hollywood premiere.

Robert H. Gage, business manager for this novel attraction, has been in Circleville for the last two days making arrangements for the premiere which promises to be exciting.

The Hollywood premiere will be presented in the same manner in which traditional first night openings are conducted in the film capital and the occasion of the opening night of some large feature picture.

Flood lights, cameras and microphones will be prominently displayed in front of the Grand theatre, as a caravan of motor cars arrives bringing about 30 local doubles of movie stars, who will speak at the "mike," and greet movie fans who are expected to be on hand to get a glimpse of their favorite "movie star."

The local "stars" will then enter the theatre where they will participate in a one hour stage show, which will also be augmented by several local specialty acts of vocal, dancing and comedy.

A search for talent is being conducted by a committee from the sorority, and a suggestion box has been placed in the lobby of the Grand theatre where patrons are invited to fill out blanks regarding any person that they might know who resembles some movie star.

An advanced ticket campaign is also being launched by the members of the sorority, and it is urged that anyone planning to attend the Hollywood premiere purchase tickets in advance.

In addition to the Hollywood premiere, the theatre will present "Melody Lane."

JUNIOR C. C. TO BOOST MEMBER LIST TO FIFTY

Plans for a Junior Chamber of Commerce membership drive were discussed when directors of the "Jaycees" met in Betz' restaurant Tuesday.

Fred Grant was appointed chairman of the membership committee, which during the next few weeks will attempt to boost the membership in the new organization to 50.

Several different projects were discussed by the directors, and the projects will be presented to other members at a meeting April 14 at 6:15 in Betz' restaurant.

Men between the ages of 21 and 35 who are interested in joining the junior organization have been invited to attend the April 14 meeting.

OUTRATE HAIRCUTS

The liveliest part of House debate on the legislative appropriation bill (providing funds for the operation of Congress) does not appear in the Congressional Record. It was over the issue of half-price haircuts for congressmen, and was deleted by members who feared repercussions if their constituents learned about the boodle.

Representative Frederick Smith, a plain-talking Ohioan, raised the ticklish haircut issue.

Representative Emmet O'Neal of Kentucky, economy-preaching chairman of a subcommittee on the bill was explaining various "miscellaneous" items, when he remarked, with a disapproving look at the press gallery.

"It is a common fallacy that haircuts, shaves, soda water and things like that are furnished House members free. That idea is a mistake."

Smith of Ohio immediately jumped up to question this.

"Why not be frank with ourselves and the people about haircuts?" he demanded. "They cost us only 25 cents in the House barber shop, half or less than half the regular price. That's getting something free, isn't it? Why not admit it to the people?"

O'Neal was so startled that his pince-nez glasses almost fell off. He coughed nervously, but did not attempt to refute Smith. Neither did anyone else. Later the Ohioan was besieged by members to delete his remarks. Finally he gave in.

JAP PROPAGANDA

According to a Tokio broadcast, beamed toward South America, Roosevelt took MacArthur out of the Philippines because he suffered severe defeat. This sort of propaganda was to be expected, but not expected was the source quoted by Tokio—a story in the Argentine newspaper, La Nacion, written by its Washington correspondent, Fernando Ortiz-Echague.

Actually, Ortiz-Echague said just the opposite, compared Roosevelt and MacArthur to Clemenceau and Foch, predicted for them the same brilliant record as those French leaders.

The GOP leader declined, however, on the ground that he did not want to appear in the light of harassing the Administration. In a letter to the War Labor Board, Ted F. Silvey, plain-talking secretary of the Ohio CIO Council, charged that in order to bring unions into dispute, certain employers are deliberately stirring up labor disturbances by placing negro workers among whites without first consulting shop stewards.

Silvey declared that the CIO is against race discrimination but is opposed to precipitous action by employers. National Maritime Union, a CIO affiliate, has a foreign section, with no control by U. S. ships under the flag of Panama. The union has a strong communistic flavor.

From where I sit...

BEST storekeeper I ever knew was a fellow named Sam Abernethy. Sam's specialty was to take over some run-down store that somebody else had given up as a failure. Then Sam would turn it into a gold mine.

"But the most important thing of all," he used to say, "is to remember who's Boss!"

"You may think you are Boss of your business... but you're not. The Public, your customers, are the real bosses... and you've got to run your business the way they want it."

That little statement of Sam's made a big impression on me... particularly since it certainly seemed to work so well in Sam's case.

And Sam isn't the only one. I see the beer industry feels the same way... certainly, the brewers believe in running their business the way you and I would like to see it run.

Folks like us like to see beer sold in clean, quiet, decent places.

Well... the brewers feel the same way about it. They don't want their beer sold in wrong surroundings. They know it doesn't pay. And they know it hurts the good name of beer.

I was reading the other day how the brewers and the beer distributors work together and cooperate with law enforcement authorities. The idea is to make careless beer retailers clean up their places and practices... or close up.

It's a good plan... and it seems to me it ought to be. I understand it is already in operation in a number of states and is being extended.

It's a mighty fine thing when a great industry has the gumption to do a job like that on its own initiative. And if Sam Abernethy was right, the brewers should be mighty successful... because they're running their business the way the public wants to see it run.

THE GERMAN FUTURE

AFTER the war, what? Of all peoples the Germans may well ask that. Unless they actually conquer and people cower when they appear, it looks as if they are going to find life rather hard. Not harder than they deserve, but probably a good deal harder than they expect. They seem to be rather innocent in regard to their relations with the outside world. They can bomb a city to fragments, deport and starve its inhabitants, and then feel astonished and hurt because they are not liked.

They will have plenty of opportunity to think it all out. For a long time to come it will be no recommendation outside of Germany for a traveling salesman to announce that he represents such-and-such a firm of Berlin or Leipzig. Nor will German vacationers be welcome. Too many people will remember the part such holiday-seekers played as spies in Norway and elsewhere.

The Germans might as well get used to the idea that there is such a thing as retribution.

COLOSSAL SCRAP

SCRAP metal is one of the subjects that occupy many people's waking moments, and properly so. There have been some rather large transactions, but perhaps hardly any as large as that associated with the island of Rhodes in the Eastern Mediterranean, which the British have just bombarded.

Rhodes was long famous as the site of the Colossus, one of the so-called seven wonders of the ancient world. It was a 125-foot statue of brass, representing the god Apollo, which stood at the entrance of one of the harbors. Ships were supposed to sail under this huge figure, which stood astride the channel. Finally it was overthrown by an earthquake, leaving enormous fragments which lay undisturbed for 800 years. At last in 656 A. D. the Arabs conquered the island, and sold the remains to a dealer in old metal. It took 900 camels to carry them all away.

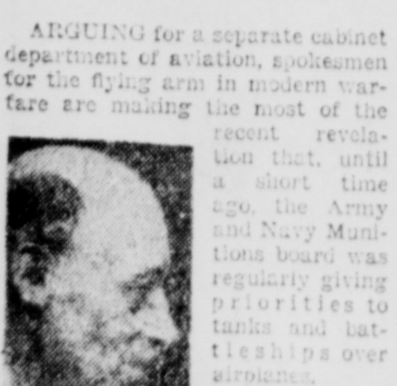

What we could do now with an unused Colossus! There are a good many old bronze statues around which we could well spare.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

ARGUING for a separate cabinet department of aviation, spokesmen for the flying arm in modern warfare are making the most of the recent revelation that, until a short time ago, the Army and Navy Munitions board was regularly giving priorities to tanks and battleships over airplanes.

This, say the air-minded folk, was just what was to have been expected from a board made up of old-fashioned surface fighters and headed by Undersecretary of War Robert H. Patterson and Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, who, according to the aviation specialists, can't realize that planes are more important today than gunboats and sea strength both put together.

The fact is it is contended that experience in the last war is a positive handicap in this one to veterans of the earlier conflict, because they try to apply the rules they learned then and they're entirely unsuited to present conditions.

Our younger officers, ashore and afloat, are spoken of as a thoroughly efficient bunch, but the higher command is in the hands mainly of older men, survivors from the 1914-18 era, who reached their current posts through seniority. A man born long enough ago to have seen service in those days, the critics assert, ought to retire, leaving chaps with modern military education to deal with the prevailing situation.

MacArthur an Exception
General Douglas MacArthur, though, isn't accused of doing any dodging.

He was in World War No. 1 all right, but nobody refers to HIM as a back number. Contrarywise, there's considerable agitation in favor of giving him charge of our whole armed effort, on the same basis as his status already, but as yet limited to the southwestern Pacific.

Even the most unqualified aviationists have no objection to HIS control of their pet branch of the service, in connection with land troops and sea forces.

For one thing, they have the most implicit confidence in his all-around management of every detail assigned to him.

Aside from that, however, or incidentally to it, they have an idea that he'll somewhat subordinate land and sea to air power. That suits them heartily. They're using aviation treated as an Army and Navy adjunct, but they're more than willing to have the Army and Navy regarded as aviation adjuncts. That, they say, is the correct way to look at it: aviators having attained an objective, it's admittedly desirable to have some groundings to occupy it or some warships to scare off raiding submarines when there happen to be no flyers handy to spill depth charges on them.

It's impossible, of course, for a non-professional to weigh the merits of the controversy.

Isn't it impossible for a pro-

AUTHORITY OVER SMALL LOANS

WASHINGTON — Behind the scenes, Jesse Jones fought to the bitter end against losing his bottlenecking control over loans to small business.

With the Army, Navy and War Production Board tearing their hair over Jesse's penny-pinching obstructionism, and with Congress getting ready to legislate against him, the President finally notified Jones he would have to relinquish authority over small loans. Jones protested vigorously but Roosevelt directed that the necessary executive order be drafted.

Jones sat in on this drafting conference of war production chiefs, where he made a final effort to stave off the ax.

His first move was to suggest that lawyers be called in to pass on the legality of stripping his authority.

"Jesse," said Sidney Weinberg, special assistant to Donald Nelson, "you've created enough bottlenecks, without having a bunch of lawyers in to create any more. The President has ordered this done and under the War Powers Act he has the authority to do it. No lawyers are needed to pass on the matter."

Jones then shifted his argument to an old favorite of his, the questionable soundness of loans to little business men.

"Suppose these loans that will be made under the proposed new setup don't pay out," he said. "After the war you people will be blamed. We've made all our loans on sound credit rules."

"Yes, but these are war times," retorted Weinberg, "and the controlling principle is not sound credit rules but war production needs. Further, why are you always worrying about money. After the war none of us will have much money, so why worry about it. There are a lot of other things in life far more important."

JONES' NEMESIS

To witness his signing of the executive order, the President invited Senators Murray, Mont., Mead, N. Y., and Clapper, Kan. This was much merited recognition of their long fight for little business men.

One other man also deserved a public pat on the back, but was not invited. Probably Roosevelt didn't know him. Only a few insiders do.

He is Shreve Coles Badger, retiring, liberal Chicago investment banker, who has been quietly after Jones' scalp.

Summoned to Washington in the early days of the old OPM to help little business, Badger ran up against the iron-handed policy of Jesse Jones in every move he made. After months of vain effort, Badger finally compiled a report on 2,000 sub-contractors kept out of war production because of inability to get needed loans from Jones.

Armed with this devastating document, Badger began a quiet but tenacious crusade against Jones, soon had the Army, Navy, WPB and Congress lined up against him. This proved one combination the bulky Texan couldn't lick.

When word reached Badger of the executive order taking small loans away from Jesse, he remarked, "Well, I may have (Continued on Page Three)

Ringworm Can Cause Chronic Itching Spots

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ITCHING between the toes and on the soles of the feet, which has been christened athlete's foot, is well known to be caused by ringworm. What is not so well known is that ringworm is the cause of chronic and recurrent itching of the skin on many different parts of the body. A condition similar to the skin of athlete's foot may break out on the skin of the hands, between the fingers; splintering and scurfiness of the fingernails and toenails may be due to this cause.

Many people carry for years, practically for life, red itchy skin of the arms, pits, and besides, there is the circular, sharply demarcated eruption in the groin known as double itch, both forms of ringworm.

Even the books on dermatology do not emphasize that the itching of the ear canal which is so annoying to a great many people, is in 95% of cases due to this form of infection, and that pest of itching around the skin of the rectum, the disease known as pruritus ani, is of the same class.

"Ringworm" scientifically is a vegetable mold called the hyphomycetes or trichophyton. When scraped off the skin and seen under the microscope, this fungus looks like a lacy network of fine threads of spun glass. There are literally hundreds of varieties of this trichophyton.

I have been shown a book by a dermatologist which describes over 800 species. They are all of the same family, but differ slightly in their chemical reactions, which makes for such a variety of manifestations on the skin and also difficulty in treatment, because on account of variability of chemical reactions, an antiseptic which will destroy one kind has no effect on another.

Most cases of chronically itching ear canals due to ringworm infection can be cured by the application of nearly any solution that has alcohol in it. My otologist tells me that this has to be applied by someone else—that I cannot do it myself even though I am a doctor, because whoever does it has to see the patches of skin involvement and make the application directly to them.

Pruritus ani is in all cases complicated and due to a number of causes such as overweight, high starch diet, fissures, hemorrhoids and psychological factors—tension, influence. But in spite of that, the statement of modern research that 90% of cases are associated with trichophyton fungus infection and 90% of the severity is due not to fissures or hemorrhoids, as was the older teaching, but to the activity of the fungus, is generally accepted as true.

The condition of the skin—the moist, warm soil—is ideal for fungus growth. In treatment, all these factors must be taken into account, but with especial emphasis on eradication of the trichophyton infection, the favorite application being Castellani's carbol fuchsin paint.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
C. W.:—Please give me the cause, symptoms and cure of Burger's disease.

Answer: Burger's disease is due to an occlusion of the arteries of the leg. It has been ascribed to the excessive use of tobacco. The symptoms are pain and poor circulation in the skin of the feet and toes. There is no certain cure, but a great deal can be done by giving up tobacco and the use of postural exercises in which the feet are alternately elevated and lowered.

M. F. B.:—Would a spastic colon or spastic constipation cause pain in the lower abdomen? If so, what would you advise for relief?

Answer: A spastic colon will cause pain in the lower abdomen. For relief I would advise a bland diet without roughage and complete abstinence from cathartics and enemas.

Orphan in Diamonds

LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
"DON'T WEEP, MY LOVE" was not released until early the following year, in February. The premiere date coincided so nearly with Anette's and Larry's second wedding anniversary that the studio party given at Claridge's, the recently opened theater-restaurant, on Sunset boulevard, served as a double celebration.

Anette realized, as Larry led her so very slowly down the wide, terraced steps to the dance floor, that the delicately and intricately designed diamond necklace and matching bracelet she wore with her white, silver-encrusted misty silk organza dress were as much trappings to add glamour to Larry's debut as they were symbols of their second anniversary.

The eyes of everyone focused on those costly glittering gifts. For a very good reason. They had been featured in the newspaper columns, along with fanfare on the new picture. Reporters had known about the gifts before Anette. All the same, she was surprised, because, to her, it was a publicity man's brainstrom, something intended to be read along with eating the breakfast bacon and eggs.

That was why, when Larry put the necklace and bracelet on her, she said, "I'm practically struck speechless." Instantly she was frowningly perturbed. "Larry, we can't do things like this!"

"Why not?" He plopped down on a fringe-covered stool and leaned his head against the stucco wall.

"Because—" His expression stopped her for the moment. She bent to kiss his lips. "Oh, my sweet, don't think I'm not absolutely mad about them. I am. I am. But we can't afford it."

Mildly brutal, he said, "Oh, don't be a farm girl all your life, Anette. I've never seen anything to equal the way they toss money around this town. I'll be filthy rich and, by golly, my wife is going to be a waiving advertisement of my importance in Hollywood. Yes, sir, my sweet little orphan wife is going to be covered with diamonds, just like I told you in Chicago."

Anette realized the liquor she had smelled on Larry's breath was more than a friendly cocktail or two. With a little movement, she dropped to the floor and put her head against his, a ridiculous, and yet pathetic figure, still wearing a shirt and tennis shorts, from a game with Ralph Hay, and the blinding, precious evening jewelry. Against her loose, black mane of wavy hair, she felt his caressing hand.

"Darling, my picture is all over this whole town. Soon it will be all over the whole country. I'm in every one of the fan magazines this month. I can't go into a theater or restaurant or a store without someone's wanting my autograph. Every man—and half the women—are copying the way I have my slacks tailored. Tonight, I'll be the most important man in Hollywood; the skies will be pierced with searchlights—all for me, Laurence Peyton." Clutched by this beautiful hallucination, he was not even aware of his wife, then suddenly he was. "So, for Pete's sake, beat it down to Brooks-Wilshire and get yourself a fit dress for tonight. Get something rich and impressive, something that looks like the wife of the famous Laurence Peyton." His self-laudatory speech had grown louder and louder.

But August's cry of ridicule was louder, as she came through the upper hall. "If I hadn't heard it with my own ears, I wouldn't believe it." She leaned against the white door jamb of the couple's bedroom and gave her starring partner a super-critical look. "I always thought the expression 'going Hollywood' was a joke. Now I know it isn't. And it certainly didn't take you long."

Larry frowned blackly as he gestured toward his wife's jewels. "I'm simply delivering the wedding anniversary presents, which I consider darned good for a Chicago West Side waltz to give his wife. But I'm not getting much thanks or much praise."

August complimented then. "They are gorgeous." She put out a gem-bright hand and touched the man's cheek. "Better get some rest, son, and let that whiskey flush fade out. You'll feel better."

Suddenly, Larry said, "I feel fine this way."

"All right. Maybe you do. But you look a little too puffy-faced to meet all those lights and cameras and admirers tonight."

"Fine talk from a gal who parks under a cement mask and neck halter for hours at a time."

Unwounded, the red-haired actress said, "That's exactly what I'm going to do now. From 4 to 6."

Larry ignored August Drake, leaned over and gave his wife and unusually long and sweet kiss. "I'm going to the Athletic club, dear, and get into shape for tonight. You'd better hurry over after your dress." Solemnly, he said, "I love you."

After he had gone, the girl thought, "He does love me. I know it. He couldn't act toward me as he does and not love me. But why can't he be happy with just me? I can be happy with just him. Why does he have to carry on this flirtation with Lois?" When she glanced up, August Drake's eyes were upon her in a compassionate gaze.

"That dress sounds like a darn good idea. I've often cemented a sizable crack in my heart by going on a shopping spree."

Preparatory to a bath and dressing for the street, the young girl began peeling off the tennis shorts. "But, August, dear, it is so different when it's a husband."

The actress giggled like a school girl. "Don't talk to me as if I were an ingenue or a frost-bitten old maid, my pet. I've had three husbands and they all put initials on my heart."

"How awful! Not the heartaches, the husbands." The girl's topaz eyes were horrified circles. "I could never think of having any husband except Larry."

"You probably never will. You married for love, but you see, I married for money and advancement." Through the girl's mind flashed the remarks of Verrazano. When August falls in love it is someone outside the theater and someone of influence. August's voice changed from acid to benedictine. "And now I'm planning to do it again. This time, it is love." Anette paused in her task of selecting bath tablets to stare at the actress. "Will you please tell me when, what and who?"

"Sun Valley—I burned my finger on a toasted marshmallow—Ted Beckman."

A grin flashed over Anette's red lips. "Still sounds like money to me."

"Uhm—yes," drawled August. "A string of pearls to match each string of ponies, but in this case the money is secondary." Her eyes lit upon the electric clock. "Great day! If I don't get to bed I'll have to yank up the circles under my eyes, and stick them there with grease paint."

It was a little after 11 o'clock when everyone gathered at Claridge's. "Unbutton your coat!" Larry directed in a whisper and made his wife pull back the neckline of her silvercloth wrap to exhibit the diamonds that seemed to be alive and dancing in a frenzy about her throat. The gaping sidewalk spectators cheered as they left their car and made their way through the glass entrance of the restaurant.

Inside, seated at their table, he immediately removed her wrap. And that was when he led her, in a slow purposeful walk, down to join the dancers.

Anette knew Lois would be there somewhere, so it was to surprise to find their chairs almost back to back. This made it convenient for Larry to dance often with the blonde girl. Not that Anette lacked for partners. The party was different from most Hollywood affairs in that there were extra men.

She realized that Larry wanted her either on the dance floor, or walking up and down the long flight of wide steps to one bar or the other, or on up the stairway to the lounge, then back again, on her way somewhere constantly. To parade his diamonds.

Once when she returned to the table on the arm of a young man in the party, Lois and Larry, both turned about from their respective tables, were engaged in an argument. Neither paid any attention to Anette or her escort. Perhaps they felt the champagne that had deadened their own hearing had deadened that of others.

Larry was saying, "Stop being so bossy. You're bossier than a wife."

"What do you know about a bossy wife?" the girl derided. "You have one who lets you get away with murder. Well, I won't be that kind. You may as well know it in advance."

"What do I care whether you'll be a bossy wife or not, say—?" Larry said in lazy jeering comprehension, "if you have any ideas of being my wife, you'd better forget about them now." Suddenly he began to hoot with laughter.

Such ghastly misery dashed over the blonde girl's face that Anette could not help feeling sorry for her. But Lois recovered quickly. With an inquisitive forefinger and an accompanying sneer that, strangely, made her look more a kid than usual, she touched Laurence Peyton's temple.

"Is that another gray hair?" (To Be Continued)

Today's Horoscope

The stars which influence the fortunes of today's birthday children are most propitious. They promise substantial gain and promotion during the next year, especially if in the army or engineering. These folk should, however, guard against deception through writings and love affairs. They are diligent, have high ambitions, and will go to great lengths to gain their ends. Their judgment is good, but they are inclined to be impractical, and are more efficient directing the efforts of others than in accomplishing things themselves. Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Thomas J. Abenethy, 71, prominent Columbus attorney and native of Pickaway county died in Mt. Carmel hospital.

The Young People's division of the county schools were to present a musical April 4 in the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Charles Radcliff and son, Dwight, went to Wheeling, W. Va., to spend the week end with her sister, Mrs. Heyward Pugh. Mr. Radcliff accompanied them to Wheeling enroute to Pennsylvania on a business trip.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. William Foreman and Miss Miriam Ruggles returned to their homes in Circleville after a trip to the Bermudas. They also visited in New York City and Washington, D. C.

The toll of a series of tornadoes that struck five southern states amounted to 319 dead and thousands injured and homeless.

Miss Marvene Penn of Dayton was spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Penn, of Pickaway township.

25 YEARS AGO

Dr. J. F. Simkins of Laurelville purchased the P. C. Smith home on East Main street from the owner, J. A. Vause.

A relief and pension department was to be established by July 1 by the Norfolk and Western railroad. It was to provide for retirement with pensions of officers and employees who had reached the age of 70.

Mrs. George W. Bauder accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Harry C. Gordon, to Parkersburg, W. Va., for a visit.

THE GERMAN FUTURE

AFTER the war, what? Of all peoples the Germans may well ask that. Unless they actually conquer and people cower when they appear, it looks as if they are going to find life rather hard. Not harder than they deserve, but probably a good deal harder than they expect. They seem to be rather innocent in regard to their relations with the outside world. They can bomb a city to fragments, deport and starve its inhabitants, and then feel astonished and hurt because they are not liked.

They will have plenty of opportunity to think it all out. For a long time to come it will be no recommendation outside of Germany for a traveling salesman to announce that he represents such-and-such a firm of Berlin or Leipzig. Nor will German vacationers be welcome. Too many people will remember the part such holiday-seekers played as spies in Norway and elsewhere.

The Germans might as well get used to the idea that there is such a thing as retribution.

COLOSSAL SCRAP

SCRAP metal is one of the subjects that occupy many people's waking moments, and properly so. There have been some rather large transactions, but perhaps hardly any as large as that associated with the island of Rhodes in the Eastern Mediterranean, which the British have just bombarded.

Rhodes was long famous as the site of the Colossus, one of the so-called seven wonders of the ancient world. It was a 125-foot statue of brass, representing the god Apollo, which stood at the entrance of one of the harbors. Ships were supposed to sail under this huge figure, which stood astride the channel. Finally it was overthrown by an earthquake, leaving enormous fragments which lay undisturbed for 800 years. At last in 656 A. D. the Arabs conquered the island, and sold the remains to a dealer in old metal. It took 900 camels to carry them all away.

What we could do now with an unused Colossus! There are a good many old bronze statues around which we could well spare.

AUTHORITY OVER SMALL LOANS

WASHINGTON—Behind the scenes, Jesse Jones fought to the bitter end against losing his bottlenecking control over loans to small business.

With the Army, Navy and War Production Board tearing their hair over Jesse's penny-pinching obstructionism, and with Congress getting ready to legislate against him, the President finally notified Jones he would have to relinquish authority over small loans. Jones protested vigorously but Roosevelt directed that the necessary executive order be drafted.

Jones sat in on this drafting conference of war production chiefs, where he made a final effort to stave off the ax.

His first move was to suggest that lawyers be called in to pass on the legality of stripping his authority.

"Jesse," said Sidney Weinberg, special assistant to Donald Nelson, "you've created enough bottlenecks, without having a bunch of lawyers in to create any more. The President has ordered this done and under the War Powers Act he has the authority to do it. No lawyers are needed to pass on the matter."

Jones then shifted his argument to an old favorite of his, the questionable soundness of loans to little business men.

"Suppose these loans that will be made under the proposed new setup don't pay out," he said. "After the war you people will be blamed. We've made all our loans on sound credit rules."

"Yes, but these are war times," retorted Weinberg, "and the controlling principle is not sound credit rules but war production needs. Further, why are you always worrying about money. After the war none of us will have much money, so why worry about it. There are a lot of other things in life far more important."

JONES' NEMESIS

To witness his signing of the executive order, the President invited Senators Murray, Mont., Mead, N. Y., and Clapper, Kan. This was much merited recognition of their long fight for little business men.

One other man also deserved a public pat on the back, but was not invited. Probably Roosevelt didn't know him. Only a few insiders do.

He is Shreve Coles Badger, retiring, liberal Chicago investment banker, who has been quietly after Jones' scalp.

Summoned to Washington in the early days of the old OPM to help little business, Badger ran up against the iron-handed policy of Jesse Jones in every move he made. After months of vain effort, Badger finally compiled a report on 2,000 sub-contractors kept out of war production because of inability to get needed loans from Jones.

Armed with this devastating document, Badger began a quiet but tenacious crusade against Jones, soon had the Army, Navy, WPB and Congress lined up against him. This proved one combination the bulky Texan couldn't lick.

When word reached Badger of the executive order taking small loans away from Jesse, he remarked, "Well, I may have

Ringworm Can Cause Chronic Itching Spots

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ITCHING between the toes and on the soles of the feet, which has been christened athlete's foot, is well known to be caused by ringworm. What is not so well known is that ringworm is the cause of chronic and recurrent itching of the skin on many different parts of the body. A condition similar to the skin of athlete's foot may break out on the skin of the hands, between the fingers; splintering and scurfiness of the fingernails and toenails may be due to this cause.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Many people carry for years, practically for life, red itchy skin of the arms pits, and besides, there is the circular, sharply demarcated eruption in the groin known as dyshidrotic itch, both forms of ringworm.

Even the books on dermatology do not emphasize that the itching of the ear canal which is so annoying to a great many people, is in 95% of cases due to this form of infection, and that pest of itching around the skin of the rectum, the disease known as pruritus ani, is of the same class.

"Ringworm" scientifically is a vegetable mold called the hyphomycetes or trichophyton. When scraped off the skin and seen under the microscope, this fungus looks like a lacy network of fine threads of spun glass. There are literally hundreds of varieties of this trichophyton.

Many Species
I have been shown a book by a dermatologist which describes over 800 species. They are all of the same family, but differ slightly in their chemical reactions, which makes for such a variety of manifestations on the skin and also difficulty in treatment, because of account of variability of chemical reactions, an antiseptic which will destroy one kind has no effect on another.

Most cases of chronically itching ear canals due to ringworm infection can be cured by the application of nearly any solution that has alcohol in it. My otologist tells me that this has to be applied by someone else—that I cannot do it myself even though I am a doctor, because whoever does it has to see the patches of skin involvement and make the application directly to them.

Pruritis ani is in all cases complicated and due to a number of causes such as overweight, high starch diet, fissures, hemorrhoids and psychological factors—tension influences. But in spite of that, the statement of modern research that 90% of cases are associated with trichophyton fungus infection and 90% of the severity is due not

C. W.—Please give me the cause, symptoms and cure of Buerger's disease.

Answer: Buerger's disease is due to an occlusion of the arteries of the leg. It has been ascribed to the excessive use of tobacco. The symptoms are pain and poor circulation in the skin of the feet and toes. There is no certain cure, but a great deal can be done by giving up tobacco and the use of postural exercises in which the feet are alternately elevated and lowered.

M. P. B.—Would a spastic colon or spastic constipation cause pain in the lower abdomen? If so, what would you advise for relief?

Answer: A spastic colon will cause pain in the lower abdomen. For relief I would advise a bland diet without roughage and complete abstinence from cathartics and enemas.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, April 1

A MOST promising and propitious chain of benefic aspects is found in the astrological map of this day. It holds signs of definite advancement upon cherished goals in social, cultural, professional, financial and commercial objectives, with much expansion, fulfillment and realization in all desired directions. It may be a fertile and productive time for engineering such transactions with initiative, enterprise and determination, with those in power or in friendly relations generously disposed to assist.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the threshold of a year of outstanding achievement, with progress, promotion, production and the fulfillment of many cherished hopes and wishes brought into manifestation. This may be in business, finance and credits, expanded business and increased popularity and prestige, with those in high places being generous and dependable.

A child born on this day should be versatile, energetic, efficient and ambitious. It should have much personal popularity and pre-eminence.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

"DON'T WEEP, MY LOVE" was not released until early the following year, in February. The premiere date coincided so nearly with Anette's and Larry's second wedding anniversary that the studio party given at Claridge's, the recently opened theatre-restaurant, on Sunset boulevard, served as a double celebration.

Anette realized, as Larry led her so very slowly down the wide, terraced steps to the dance floor, that the delicately and intricately designed diamond necklace and matching bracelet she wore with her white, silver-encrusted misty silk organza dress were as much trappings to add glamour to Larry's debut as they were symbols of their second anniversary.

The eyes of everyone focused on those costly glittering gifts. For a very good reason. They had been featured in the newspaper columns, along with fanfare on the new picture. Reporters had known about the gifts before Anette. All the same, she was surprised, because, to her, it was a publicity man's brainstrom, something intended to be read along with eating the breakfast bacon and eggs.

That was why, when Larry put the necklace and bracelet on her, she said, "I'm practically struck speechless." Instantly she was frostily perturbed. "Larry, we can't do things like this!"

"Why not?" He plopped down on a fringe-covered stool and leaned his head against the stucco wall. "Because—" His expression stopped her for the moment. She bent to kiss his lips. "Oh, my sweet, don't think I'm not absolutely mad about them. I am. I am. But we can't afford it."

Mildly brutal, he said, "Oh, don't be a farm girl all your life, Anette. I've never seen anything to equal the way they toss money around this town. I'll be filthy rich and, by golly, my wife is going to be a walking advertisement of my importance in Hollywood. Yes, sir, my sweet little orphan wife is going to be covered with diamonds, just like I told you in Chicago."

Anette realized the liquor she had smelled on Larry's breath was more than a friendly cocktail or two. With a little movement, she dropped to the floor and put her head against his knee, a ridiculous, and yet pathetic figure still wearing a shirt and tennis shorts, from a game with Ralph Hay, and the blinding, precious evening jewelry. Against her loose, black mane of wavy hair, she felt his caressing hand.

"Darling, my picture is all over this whole town. Soon it will be all over the whole country. I'm in every one of the fan magazines this month. I can't go into a theater or restaurant or a store without someone's wanting my autograph. Every man—and half the women—are copying the way I have my slacks tailored. Tonight, I'll be the most important man in Hollywood; the skies will be pierced with searchlight—all for me, Laurence Peyton."

Clutched by this beautiful hallucination, he was not even aware of his wife, then suddenly he was, "So, for Pete's sake, beat it down to Brooks-Wilshire and get yourself a fit dress for tonight. Get something rich and impressive, something that looks like the wife of the famous Laurence Peyton." His self-laudatory speech had grown louder and louder.

And it certainly didn't take you long."

Larry frowned blackly as he gestured toward his wife's jealous stare. "I'm simply delivering the wedding anniversary presents, which I consider darned good for a Chicago West Side waif to give his wife. But I'm not getting much thanks or much praise."

August complimented then. "They are gorgeous." She put out a gem-bright hand and touched the man's cheek. "Better get some rest, son, and let that whiskey flush fade out. You'll feel better."

Sullenly, Larry said, "I feel fine this way."

"All right. Maybe you do. But you look a little too puffy-faced to meet all those lights and cameras and admirers tonight."

"Fine talk from a gal who parks under a cement mask and neck halter for hours at a time."

Larry ignored August Drake, leaned over and gave his wife and unusually long and sweet kiss. "I'm going to the Athletic club, dear, and get into shape for tonight. You'd better hurry over after your dress." Solemnly, he said, "I love you."

After he had gone, the girl thought, "He does love me. I know it. He couldn't act toward me as he does and not love me. But why can't he be happy with just me? Why does he have to carry on this flirtation with Lois?"

When she glanced up, August Drake's eyes were upon her in a compassionate gaze. "That dress sounds like a darn good idea. I've often dreamed a sizable crack in my heart by going on a shopping spree."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

ARGUING for a separate cabinet department of aviation, spokesmen for the flying arm in modern warfare are making the most of the recent revolution that, until a short time ago, the Army and Navy maintained.

General Douglas MacArthur, though not accused of doing any governing, was in World War No. 1 all right, but nobody refers to HIM as a back number. Contrarywise, there's considerable agitation in favor of giving him charge of our undeveloped effort, on the same basis as his status already, but as yet limited to the southwestern Pacific.

Even the most unqualified practicalists have no objection to HIS control of their pet branch of the service, in connection with land troops and sea forces.

For one thing, they have the most confident confidence in his air-mind management of every detail assigned to him.

Aside from that, however, or incidentally to it, they have an idea that he'll somewhat subordinate land and sea to air power, that suits them heartily. They resent having aviation treated as an Army and Navy adjunct, but they are more than willing to have the Army and Navy regarded as aviation adjuncts. That, they say, is the correct way to look at it: aviators having attained an objective, it's soundly desirable to have some groundings to occupy it or some means to assure of raising submarines when there happen to be no flyers handy to spill depth charges on them.

It's impossible, of course, for a non-professional to weigh the merits of the entire case. Indeed, it's impossible for a professional to do so. The terrestrial scrappers allege one thing and the cloudlanders allege something different. It obviously will take the progress of events to decide the issue.

MacArthur an Exception

General Douglas MacArthur, though not accused of doing any governing, was in World War No. 1 all right, but nobody refers to HIM as a back number. Contrarywise, there's considerable agitation in favor of giving him charge of our undeveloped effort, on the same basis as his status already, but as yet limited to the southwestern Pacific.

ARMY DAY
Cadets of historic United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, will salute Army Day, April 6, on a nation-wide broadcast of Vox Pop at 8 p. m.

First Class men, soon to graduate and speed to active commands on America's far-flung battle lines, will pause briefly in their intensive night and day training for war, and assemble in West Point's War Department Theatre to participate in the celebration program. The famous cheers and songs of the Academy will highlight the broadcast.

Vox Pop, first radio program admitted to West Point was invited for this return broadcast by Major F. B. Wilby, superintendent of the 140-year-old Academy.

RADIO BRIEFS
Deanna Durbin was a constant visitor at Eddie Cantor's New York home during her recent stay in the East. The poised and gracious songstress who has scored so many triumphs in Hollywood is as appreciative for Eddie's sponsoring her at the start of her career as she was the day Eddie auditioned her at the United Artists Studio.

Kay Kyser's cut-in to "Hit Parade" Saturday, will come from the Arena in Trenton, N. J., where his "College of Musical Knowledge" troupe has a date on that night.

Electric Cooking SAVES V.M.F.

Recent tests by an independent laboratory show that foods cooked the ordinary way lost more than 1-3 of their vitamins. The same foods, cooked electrically, lost less than 1-10 of their vitamins.

The clean, even heat of an electric range enables you to cook the "vitamin saving" way. It enables you to get the most out of the food you buy.

Stoutsville Betting Asks Title Tilt After Whipping Dorazio

PHILADELPHIA, April 1 — No betting class for a shot at the heavyweight crown of Private Joe Louis reached a timeout today following the Eason (N. Y.) southpaw's smashing victory over Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia slugger, at the arena last night.

Mello's 10th consecutive heavy-weight triumph was earned on the unanimous decision of Referee Irving Kutcher and Judges Eddie Loughran and Harry Lasky. Not a voice of protest came from 7,000 spectators who had rooted for Dorazio, a 4 to 1 underdog at ring time.

Dorazio, the heavier by five pounds at 190, punched back as long as his weary arms could function. But he was rocking and reeling and almost out on his feet before the final bell ended the storm.

Dorazio showed far greater speed and hurt the Philadelphia equally with either fist. His left jab bothered Dorazio, who had few opportunities to display the deadly infighting which has doomed the chances of not a few promising heavy-weight contenders.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1 — Four veterans of the Cleveland and New York pitching staffs were slated to face each other today as the Indians and Giants continued their training series through the South.

Al Munnar and Mel Harder of the Tribe will toe the rubber against Bill McCre and Cliff Melton of the Giants.

The Indians edged the New York club, 3-2, in 10 innings at Hattiesburg, Miss., yesterday with the able assistance of Jeff Heath's two home runs. Jeff's second round-tripper tied the score in the ninth, while Manager Lou Boudreau singled home Clint Brown, relief pitcher, who had doubled, to sew up the contest in the tenth.

With nearly 2,000 soldiers from Camp Shelby in the stands, the two teams battled through five scoreless innings before the Giants broke the ice in the sixth with two runs off Ray Poat. Heath got one of them back with his first homer, his second deadlocked the count, and Brown and Boudreau combined to push the winning run across.

Red Embree, Indian roogie hurler, practically won himself a job with the Tribe when he held the Giants to a pair of hits and no runs in the first five frames. Poat, who succeeded him, went wild in the sixth to force in the second Giant run with three successive walks after a sacrifice fly had scored the first marker.

Brown came to Poat's rescue and struck out Mel Ott for the third out.

TIGER HARRIERS. READY TO BEGIN SPRING SEASON

First Meet Postponed By Snow; Youths Assigned To Varied Events

MANY FOES ON LIST

Red And Black Golfers To Go Into Action Against Upper Arlington

Circleville's track and field team is practicing diligently for its season's competition, and expects to be strong enough to give a good account of itself against all opponents.

The team's first scheduled meet was to have been Tuesday, but snow and rain forced postponement until next week. The meet will be a triangular affair against Pickaway and Salt Creek.

Other competition lined up for the Tigers includes contests with Columbus Rosary and its Paul Kapper; Chillicothe, to be a night meet there; Washington C. H., Groveport and Canal Winchester.

The team, lined up as at present, will be a little weak in the hurdles and the weight events, but several boys are showing improvement in these divisions.

Veteran members of the squad and their choice events are Paul Jackson, sprints, high jump and half-mile relay; Captain Paul Seymour, distances; Jack Hatz, pole vault and broad jump; Tom Shea, pole vault, broad jump and shot put; Dud Smallwood, 440 dash, low hurdles and discus; Virgil Wolf, high jump and half mile relay. Other members of the squad who will fill various assignments are Emmett Dade, Richard Binkley, Jim Carr, John Sabine, Frank Webb, Ira Barr, David Yates, Freck Heath, Clifford Kerns and Bob Goeller.

The school's golf team, comprised of Johnny Woods, Bob Moon, Frank Gelb and Gerald Ayers, will get its first taste of competition next Wednesday against Upper Arlington's district champions.

BUCK HARRIS MAY USE TWO MEN ON THIRD BASE

ORLANDO, Fla., April 1—Unable to make a real for a third baseman, Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators today appeared to have worked out a solution to his problem. After his club took a 4 to 2 lead over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, Harris pulled Rookie Stanley Galle off the spot in the seventh inning and sent in the veteran Ossie Bluege, who has been serving as a coach. It was believed that Harris will use Galle until the last crucial innings of play and then call on the steady 41-year-old Bluege.

PIRATES BUMP SOX

EL CENTRO, Cal., April 1—The Pittsburgh Pirates continued to march through "big league" competition today, their latest win a 5 to 1 conquest of the Chicago White Sox. The victory marked the fifteenth time out of 17 contests that the Corsairs have come out on the long end of the score. Bobby Klinger was the winning pitcher while Murrell Jones, a rookie, was charged with the loss.

County War Board Acts To Supply Farm Labor

Registration Cards For High School Youths Being Printed

WORK BEING ASSURED

Turney Weldon Appointed As Interviewer In Local Office

Registration cards which will recruit boys from Circleville and Pickaway county high schools for work on farms this summer were being printed Wednesday and will be sent out to the schools this week.

Final plans for the registration were made Tuesday afternoon when the labor committee of the Pickaway County War Board met in the office of Chairman John G. Boggs. Members of the committee are Mrs. Fannie Brooks, farmer fieldwoman; George McDowell, county school superintendent; F. K. Blair, county agricultural agent; and Kenneth Holtey, Walnut township, and G. D. Bradley, Pickaway township, both vocational agriculture teachers.

Five hundred registration cards are being printed. Registrants are asked three questions: 1. type of work desired; 2. previous farm experience; 3. how long have you lived on a farm? The cards also will provide space for three references.

Weldon Appointed

While the War Board was working on its labor survey, the United States employment service announced Wednesday that it had appointed Turney Weldon, 414 South Court street, as interviewer in charge of the Circleville office.

Mr. Weldon will work under the directions of E. C. Duncan, manager of the Columbus district which comprises five counties. His principal duties will be contacting farmers, learning their farm needs, and contacting workers with some farm experiences in order to provide the farmer with needed workers.

Since a shortage of fully qualified farm hands is indicated by the demand over supply, the employing farmer will be asked by the employment office to cooperate in hiring partially qualified workers, just as employers in other industries are doing. The registration file of farm workers for 1941 has been predominately that of married men, many single men having been drawn into the armed forces. This indicates a need, according to H. J. Merz, district supervisor of the farm employment program, for farmers to provide five or six room houses to accommodate these workers and their families.

To Help Supply

It is the opinion of the local employment office that providing adequate housing will give boys and girls of farm workers an opportunity to develop an interest in farm work, thereby providing a supply of youthful farm laborers in the future.

BOYS AT CCC REPAIR SHOP FINGERPRINTED BY POLICE IN NATIONAL DEFENSE JOB

Mechanics and apprentices at the CCC central repair shop were being fingerprinted at police headquarters Wednesday as a part of the government's defense measures to prevent sabotage. There are about 40 persons at the garage to be fingerprinted.

Police officials already have fingerprinted employees of the Ohio Fuel and Gas company and the Container Corporation of America.

NEWHOUSE WILL FILED

Will of the late Simon Josephas Newhouse has left his farm in Saltcreek township and his home in Whisler to his widow, Sarah. The property is valued at $6,000. The widow also was named executrix. On her death the property is bequeathed to four sons and a daughter. They are Leland of Cleveland, Clayton of Buckhannon, W. Va., Mrs. Vanet Fetherolf of Kingston route 1, Kenneth of Covington, Ky., and Russell of Kingston route 1.

ing "best ever," with stress on men's and women's apparel.

SAN FRANCISCO: Pre-Easter sales up approximately 25 percent over last year. Due to increased payrolls from defense industries.

PORTLAND: Increases of 30 to 35 percent reported generally, with sales of wearing apparel fully 50 percent over that of 1941.

SEATTLE: Pre-Easter sales up 40 to 45 percent, according to department stores, but Chamber of Commerce estimates as high as 54 percent in some brackets.

DALLAS: "Very satisfactory to date," but no percentage gain estimated.

SAN ANTONIO: Expansion of Army camps, bases, meant more, higher checks, with resulting increase in sales volume.

HOUSTON: Dollar volume of pre-Easter wearing apparel-buying up 20 percent over last year. Increase provided chiefly by men's suits and coats.

Dresses "way down." Cutting of credit period listed as factor in increased furniture sales temporarily.

KANSAS CITY: Sales up 30 percent. Percentage about same throughout Kansas, western Missouri, with high of 45 percent at Wichita.

NEW ORLEANS: Sharp increases in "apparel divisions" of leading department stores, estimated at between 25 and 50 percent. Specialty stores also showing increases, but not on same scale.

ATLANTA: Retail store sales up 14 percent for four-week period ending March 21, over comparable period of 1941. Greater volume of increase in terms of money than of actual sales in consumer goods.

INDIANAPOLIS: Record-breaking shopping in Indianapolis and practically all Indiana cities due to heavy defense industry payrolls. Clothing, electrical appliances, razors blades among products showing greatest gains.

CLEVELAND: Buying up 20 to 30 percent over last Easter period.

ST. LOUIS: "Considerably greater" buying than last year, due to increased employment, concern over shortages.

SALES TAX TOTAL FOR MARCH UNDER YEAR AGO

Drop in sales tax receipts during March was revealed Wednesday in a report from Fred Colville, deputy treasurer in charge of stamp sales at the court house.

Sales tax receipts for last month were $860.36 under the total for March, 1941. Total sales for last month were $5,304.80, and for March, 1941, $6,165.16.

Total receipts for January and February this year were $10,746.55 and for the same period last year were $10,720.91, showing an increase of $25.64 this year.

Curtailed in auto sales probably accounts for the decided drop in receipts during March, Colville said.

ported today in an official German communique. Day and night bombing assaults on shipbuilding yards and submarine anchorages at Valetta on the island of Malta, and the shooting down of two British planes in aerial combat also were claimed.

CAIRO—The middle east high command today said there was "nothing to report" from the Libyan front.

LONDON—Additional official photographs released today revealed the full damage to the French port and installations at St. Nazaire, wrecked by RAF bombers and British Commando forces last Saturday. The pictures clearly show that the dock and pump-house were severely damaged, in addition to the machine house which operated the outer lock of the drydock.

RIO DE JANEIRO—In a move to protect herself against Nazi u-boats attacks, Brazil already is arming ships with 120-millimeter guns, it was disclosed in official circles today. Meanwhile, raids continued against suspected axis fifth columnists.

BRITISH OFFER TO BE TURNED DOWN BY INDIA

NEW DELHI, April 1—The British proposal offering India dominion status after the war appeared doomed to failure today.

Already there was one definite rejection of the plan and reports were circulated that the all-India Congress Party, representing the huge Hindu population, had decided to turn down the proposals.

The Sikh delegation, which represents 4,500,000 of the nation's 390,000,000 people, was the first to signify dissatisfaction with the plan.

PAROLEE HUNTED AFTER TWO MEN ARE KILLED

OXFORD, Mich., April 1—A widespread search by state, county and local law officers was under way today for a 19-year-old Jackson prison parolee in connection with the murder of two aged Oakland county farmers who were shot to death in their farm homes, a quarter of a mile apart.

Killed were Cassius Barber, 71, and his cousin, C. Romaine Potter, 75. The former was shot three times at close range while his aged mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, 93, sat reading in an adjoining room. Potter, who was alone in his home, was shot once.

Police started a search for Dominic Piccone, paroled two weeks ago from Jackson where he was serving a sentence for an attack on a woman. At one time, he worked on the Barber farm.

YOUTHFUL TIRE SLASHERS HIT AS 'LITTLE HITLERS'

CANTON, April 1—Branded "little Fifth Columnists" by Judge Thomas H. Leahy of domestic relations court for slashing automobile tires, two youths, 16 and 17, were committed to boys' industrial school today and a third youth, 15, to the Ohio bureau of juvenile research.

"You are on Hitler's payroll in destroying precious materials," Judge Leahy declared in passing sentence. "You were stabbing your parents in the back."

Uncle Sam Takes Large Supply of Scrap Metal From Farm Residents

DAYTON, April 1—In the second seizure of its kind since war began, the federal government today had taken over 10,000 tons of scrap metal which a Montgomery county farm family had refused to sell to steel mills working on armaments orders.

The metal was owned by James, Jake and Owen Eby. It was in the form of rejected refrigerator cabinets which had been dumped in a ravine on their farm near West Carrollton by General Motors corporation.

Samuel Slotky of Cleveland, regional director of information for the Office of Emergency Management (OEM) said that the metal was sufficient to build a good sized warship or 10 tanks. The Eby brothers will be paid $40,000 for it, or $4 a ton.

The seizure was carried out by U. S. Marshal Charles Sisson of Columbus and two deputies acting on orders of P. G. Fulgar of Detroit, assistant regional director of the War Production Board (WPB).

LUTHER NOGGLE DIES AT 84 IN SUN RIDGE HOME

Luther Noggle, 84, father of H. M. Noggle, East Main street, died at Sun Ridge rest home in Columbus Tuesday about 4:30 p. m.

Mr. Noggle had been in ill health for some time, having been at Berger hospital for treatment before going to Sun Ridge a month ago. Previously he lived with his son on East Main street. Another son, S. F. Noggle of Columbus, and three grandchildren, also survive. Preceding him in death was his wife, Isabelle Friend Noggle.

Born June 13, 1857 in Fairfield county, he was the son of Simon Noggle and Polly Hedges. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the Defenbaugh funeral home, East Main street, the Rev. A. N. Gruesser, pastor of First United Brethren church, officiating with burial in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville.

Friends may call at the Defenbaugh home after 4 p. m. Wednesday.

ARMCO SCORES NEW RECORD IN MONTH'S OUTPUT

MIDDLETOWN, April 1—The greatest production of steel for one month in the 31 years the Middletown division of the American Rolling Mill company has operated was recorded at midnight by the blast furnace, open hearth and blooming bar and strip mill departments.

Establishment of the new high coincides with the April 1 date on which War Production Chief Donald Nelson asked for reports on production progress. Officials pointed out that the record is even more impressive when the hand-to-mouth supply of scrap iron available is considered.

While mill whistles heralded the new peaks, men in the plant dispatched a telegram to Nelson reporting the records and pledging "not to meet them but to beat them."

County War Board Acts To Supply Farm Labor

Registration Cards For High School Youths Being Printed

WORK BEING ASSURED

Turney Weldon Appointed As Interviewer In Local Office

Registration cards which will recruit boys from Circleville and Pickaway county high schools for work on farms this summer were being printed Wednesday and will be sent out to the schools this week.

Final plans for the registration were made Tuesday afternoon when the labor committee of the Pickaway County War Board met in the office of Chairman John G. Boggs. Members of the committee are Mrs. Fannie Brooks, farmer fieldwoman; George McDowell, county school superintendent; F. K. Blair, county agricultural agent; and Kenneth Holter, Walnut township, and G. D. Bradley, Pickaway township, both vocational agriculture teachers.

Five hundred registration cards are being printed. Registrants are asked three questions: 1. type of work desired; 2. previous farm experience; 3. how long have you lived on a farm? The cards also will provide space for three references.

Weldon Appointed

While the War Board was working on its labor survey, the United States employment service announced Wednesday that it had appointed Turney Weldon, 414 South Court street, as interviewer in charge of the Circleville office.

Mr. Weldon will work under the directions of E. C. Duncan, manager of the Columbus district which comprises five counties. His principal duties will be contacting farmers, learning their farm needs, and contacting workers with some farm experiences in order to provide the farmer with needed workers.

Since a shortage of fully qualified farm hands is indicated by the demand over supply, the employing farmer will be asked by the employment office to cooperate in hiring partially qualified workers, just as employers in other industries are doing. The registration file of farm workers for 1941 has been predominately that of married men, many single men having been drawn into the armed forces. This indicates a need, according to H. J. Merz, district supervisor of the farm employment program, for farmers to provide five or six room houses to accommodate these workers and their families.

To Help Supply
It is the opinion of the local employment office that providing adequate housing will give boys and girls of farm workers an opportunity to develop an interest in farm work, thereby providing a supply of youthful farm laborers in the future.

BOYS AT CCC REPAIR SHOP FINGERPRINTED BY POLICE IN NATIONAL DEFENSE JOB

Mechanics and apprentices at the CCC central repair shop were being fingerprinted at police headquarters Wednesday as a part of the government's defense measures to prevent sabotage. There are about 40 persons at the garage to be fingerprinted.

Police officials already have fingerprinted employees of the Ohio Fuel and Gas company and the Container Corporation of America.

NEWHOUSE WILL FILED

Will of the late Simon Josephas Newhouse has left his farm in Salt Creek township and his home in Whisler to his widow, Sarah. The property is valued at $6,000. The widow also was named executrix. On her death the property is bequeathed to four sons and a daughter. They are Leland of Cleveland, Clayton of Buckhannon, W. Va., Mrs. Vanet Fetherolf of Kingston route 1, Kenneth of Covington, Ky., and Russell of Kingston route 1.

DARBYVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Pitt spent Sunday in Columbus visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Pitt and family. Mrs. Pitt received a telephone call from her son Marvin, who is with the U. S. Army in the Panama Canal Zone.

Mrs. Roscoe Peters and children spent Sunday in Circleville visiting relatives of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Malloney of Cincinnati spent Saturday with Ernest Ankrom.

Miss Evelyn Miller of Columbus was a business visitor here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Lockard of Derby spent Sunday with Mrs. Louisiana Collins.

One Minute Pulpit
Though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains and have not charity, I am nothing. —I Corinthians 13:2.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lumpe, North Pickaway street, resumed her duties as superintendent of Berger hospital Wednesday after several weeks of illness.

Mrs. George E. Armstrong of Adelphi was removed Wednesday to White Cross hospital, Columbus, in the Defenbaugh invalid car for observation and treatment. Mr. Armstrong is superintendent of Centralia centralized schools, Ross county.

Mace Brown has returned to the U. S. Army post, Indiantown Gap, Pa., after spending a week's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Brown, of near Mt. Sterling, formerly of this community.

Circle No. 4 of the Methodist church invites the public to a lunch Thursday, April 2nd, from 11 to 1. Price 35c. Menu, chicken cutlets, mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, hot rolls, jello salad, hickory nut cake, coffee.

Corporal William B. Kellstadt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton B. Kellstadt of North Court street, arrived Wednesday to visit until Monday with his parents. Kellstadt is a member of the 637th Tank Destroyer Battalion and heads a motorcycle squad. He is stationed at Indiantown Gap, Pa.

Fred C. Clark, chairman of Pickaway county's Easter seal campaign, will broadcast over WHKC, Columbus, Wednesday at 9 p. m.

There will be no games party this week at Memorial hall. The American Legion Auxiliary will sponsor the next party April 9.
